

Appendix B - Family Charts

Descendancy Charts

The descendancy charts lists all of the approximately 500 known descendants of John Dorcy, Civil War Soldier. Each generation is given a number, and birth, marriage and death years are given when known. The vertical lines match up on each succeeding page so one can follow down a line to locate all the children of a marriage even though the children are on succeeding pages.

Family Group Sheets

The family group sheet is the genealogist's standard record keeping device, and although it may be a little foreign to a non-genealogist, it is concise and complete. The main use of family group sheets is to show the vital data of birth, marriage and death in detail and the source of that information. The individual chapters in this book do not include all the vital data, such as the exact date, the county, the cemetery, etc., but all of what the authors know of the family is in the family group sheets.

Since it would be impractical to include group sheets for all the generations, we have chosen to provide them for only the first three generations beginning with John D'Orsay, Sr. Those who are interested can then see the sources from which our information was taken. The source of data for the rest of the generations after the first three are mostly from living relatives, so we considered it pointless to include group sheets with sources for them.

Included as a part of the family group sheets are notes about each individual. The notes show primarily the source of the information about that person. It includes how we know of a persons birthplace and date, a couples marriage date and place, a persons death date and place, and may include other information such as military service or where and when they were found in the census. If some information such as a birth date is not included, it simply means we do not know it.

The authors have the family group sheets for all the generations which are in this book. If someone wants printed copies of them, we would be happy to provide them at cost.
